Under the “General” tab, you can control who can view your profile. It is recommended that you only allow OKCupid members to view your profile. You can also access your notifications to decide what you receive emails about.

The screenshot shows the OKCupid website's "Settings" page, specifically the "General" tab. On the left, there is a dark blue sidebar with the OKCupid logo at the top. Below the logo is a large blue padlock icon and the text "Secure page" followed by "To ensure you are protected we have stripped this page to its essentials." A red arrow points from this sidebar towards the "Privacy" section of the main content area. The main content area has a light blue header with the title "Settings" and three tabs: "My Account", "General" (which is selected and underlined), and "Hidden Users". Below the tabs is a light blue banner with a ghost icon and the text "Browse invisibly with A-List." and a right-pointing arrow. Underneath is the "Privacy" section, which contains two unchecked checkboxes. The first checkbox is labeled "Only allow other OkCupid members to view my profile" and has a red arrow pointing to it. The second checkbox is labeled "Turn off Visitors" and is followed by a bulleted list: "• People will not see you visit their profile", "• You will not see who visits your profile", and "• Your current Visitors list will be cleared". To the right of the "Privacy" section is a grey box titled "Emails" with the text: "If you turn off a notification, most emails will stop at once, but you might get one or two stray emails this week."
